Community Action Plan – Wazir-Abad

What we want to do

In Wazir-Abad, we want to slowly build a more peaceful and understanding community. We don't want big or complicated projects—we want small, real actions that can actually work in everyday life.

Our simple plans

Talk with young people in our area about respect, peace, and making better choices in life

Encourage students to stay focused on their education and avoid negative influences

Help people in the community solve small misunderstandings through calm conversation instead of arguments

Do small group activities when possible, like cleaning shared spaces or helping families in need

Share positive messages about kindness and unity in simple community gatherings or schools

Try to bring families closer so people understand each other better

How we will start

We will start small, with the people who are willing to join. No pressure, no big structure—just simple efforts, one step at a time. Even small actions can slowly make a difference in the community.

What we hope to see

Over time, we hope Wazir-Abad becomes a place where:

People talk more and argue less

Young people feel more positive and motivated

Families support each other more

The community feels more united and peaceful.
